

VENDING MACHINE

Abstraction:

A vending machine is like automated shop. Products are loaded into a machine and are available to purchase, generally 24/7. Vending products are commonly; freshly made snacks and fresh food. But there seems to be little limit into what can be vended nowadays. Each item in a vending machine has its own selection number or corresponding button, and once payment has been made customers can choose the selection number or corresponding button and wait for their chosen product to be dispensed.
